Always You

Schiller

Went from the east to the west with stories to erase from my heart, my fingers and my face i've tried my very best no matter wherever i am there's nothing i can do cause my love has only one name and it is you i believe that some things are destined they're meant to happen i believed that my heart had chosen the one in a million i've opened all doors and all access for you to get into now this heart is cold and it's homeless because of you memories forced me to remember to safe love from anger i can't stop myself but to wonder wished i had been better counting the time that i've wasted over someone new cause one thing that i ever wanted is only you.
it's only a matter of time i know soon i will find that feeling so close to divine someone i can call mine but silence is pounding in my head hit me through and through what everything fails to forget is always you
