

One Sun

Zoppi

I may seem tall but I know
In certain times I walk small
I break in pain, I shred apart
A chest so weak from searching deep
Through a dying heart Our yesterday spent in vain
Pale drawn faces from this breeds shame
I'll always love what you have been
Can I be full? Is this my sin? What will I say to you, when I come to you?
In the final view under one sun
For the life of me, what will it do to me?
Knowing we'll always be under one sun
Under one sun Can't justify all I know
It's always there, just never shown
No woven threads can weave this blame
I give you this now, give me the same What will I say to you, when I come to you?
In the final view under one sun
For the life of me, what will it do to me?
Knowing we'll always be under one sun
Under one sun I find myself at ease if I can
Somehow just see me for me
Unconscious to you now is saving me
But I will always bleed What will I say to you, when I come to you?
In the final view, when said and done
For the life of me, will it set me free?
Give me serenity under one sun
Under one sun Will I wait? Will I sleep
Will I feel? What I am
In time, in time Will I wait? Will I sleep
Will I feel? What I am
In time, in time

Songwriters

Paul David Vogelsang; Richard Vogelsang, Jr. Zoppi Published by WB MUSIC CORP. Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>