

Late Goodbye (Live at Lost in Music)

Poets of the Fall

In our headlights
Staring, bleak
Beer cans
Deer's eyes On the asphalt Underneath
Our crushed plans
And my lies Lonely street signs
Power lines
They keep on flashing
Flashing by And we keep driving into the night
It's a late goodbye
Such a late goodbye And we keep driving into the night
It's a late goodbye Your breath
Hot upon my cheek
And we crossed
That line You made me strong
When I was feeling weak
And we crossed
That one time Screaming stop signs
Staring wild eyes
Keep on flashing
Flashing by And we keep driving into the night
It's a late goodbye
Such a late goodbye And we keep driving into the night
It's a late goodbye The devil grins from ear to ear when he sees the hand he's dealt us
Points at your flaming hair and then we're playin' hide and seek I can't breathe easy here 'less our trail's gone cold behind us
'til in the john mirror you stare at yourself grown old and weak We keep driving into the night
It's a late goodbye
Such a late goodbye And we keep driving into the night
It's a late goodbye
Such a late goodbye And we keep driving into the night
It's a late goodbye
Such a late goodbye And we keep driving into the night
It's a late goodbye
Such a late goodbye And we keep driving into the night
It's a late goodbye
Such a late goodbye And we keep driving into the night...
Such a late goodbye And we keep driving into the night...
