

Long Island

Gasoline Heart

I walked to Long Island with nothing more
Than a paper hat I found to keep me warm
Sometimes it seems you get what you need
So let's decide darling, either we heal or we bleed
It's often that I wish I'd forget myself
Brought me to your knees, it took a little help
So let's be honest or let's move on
Let's pretend, sugar, ain't nothing wrong
I'm fine just where I am
I'm fine, just let me be
You're fine just where you are
You're fine
Open your door and I may be there
Crack your window, let in the summer air
And all this time you were looking too far
Upstairs overhead I was drunk on the floor
You came and went like autumn or spring
If you can't count on me
You can't count on anything
I'm fine just where I am
You're fine just where you are
I'm fine just where I am
You're fine, just let me be
What's keeping me
What's keeping me
What's keeping me
