

Higher Ground

Barbra Streisand

Walk me over this horizon
Let the sun's light warm my face
Once again the times are changing
Once again I lost my way Well the words of ancient poets
Fall like dust upon my shoes
Greed has robbed me of my vision
Turned my heart from higher truths So take my hand and lift me higher
Be my love and my desire
Hold me safe and and honor bound
Take my heart to higher ground I have walked too long in darkness
I have walked too long alone
Blindly clutching fists of diamonds
That I found were only stones I would trade the wealth of ages
For a warmer hand to hold
The path of light is narrow
But it leads to streets of gold So take my hand and lift me higher
Be my love and my desire
Hold me safe and honor bound
Take my heart to higher ground In this world we move through shadows
Never sure of what we see
While the truth that lies between us
Come and share the truth with me So take my hand and lift me higher
Be my love and my desire
Hold me safe and honor bound
Take my heart to higher, higher ground
