

It's Ice

Phish

I press on the elastic sheet, I'm breathing through a slice
Are they worms or are they serpents? Bubbles through the ice
The source was quite invisible, the ever present voice
While skating both legs tracing different shapes, I made my choice Mimicking the image in whose radiance I bask
I'm tied to him, or him to me depending who you ask None the less reluctantly reflections tumble in
I slide with all the others on the wrong side of the skin
He's fallen on the ice, it cracks
Will he plunge in and join me here?
He meets my eyes, to my surprise
He laughs in full light of my frown
My double wants to pull me down
Slipping on the friction slide my skin peels to the bone
The flesh I leave behind is something that is not my own
I beg my mirror image for a moment with my soul
He's pleading back, time to attack it's me who's in control
And every move I make, he's got a hand up just in time
He's throwing several punches and he's blocking most of mine
Defeated now, I sulk and squirm in my [Incomprehensible] frozen ice
Waiting, calculating till next he ventures on the ice
He's fallen on the ice, it cracks
Will he plunge in and join me here?
He meets my eyes, to my surprise
He laughs in full light of my frown
My double wants to pull me down
He's fallen on the ice, it cracks
Will he plunge in and join me here?
He meets my eyes, to my surprise
He laughs in full light of my frown
My double wants to pull me down
He's fallen on the ice, it cracks
Will he plunge in and join me here?
He meets my eyes, to my surprise
He laughs in full light of my frown
My double wants to pull me down

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>