

Where I Live

Christine Evans

You don't know what it feels like Runnin' down my nowhere road and you, you don't know what I'd give for you Cause the choice not to tell you I chose But this is where I live
In the deep grove of all this nothingness
We're not as different as you think
I may be smaller,
But I guess I've never been so unsure I hate the way that I just can't hate you
So I'm stuck here lyin' in my grave
You're breakin' hearts
You're makin' marks upon my skin
And I finally figured out that I just can't win But this is where I live
In the deep grove of all this nothingness
We're not as different as you think
I may be smaller,
But I guess I've never been so unsure I hate to hide my face
I just can't live this way
I just can't face that I know
I've gotta learn to dream
Cause now I know I see that But this is where I live
In the deep grove of all this nothingness
We're still not as different as you think
I may be smaller,
But I guess I've never been so unsure But it's okay,
I never hoped to win anything more

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>