

I Would Be So Pleased

Dee Dee Magno

Somewhere in a dream
Perhaps another lifetime
I have seen your face
I have held you near.

Riding on a beam
The sun became your lifeline
Passing time and space
Now you're standing here.

And born of heaven's creations
Your voice gently cries
Saying "I would be so pleased. I would take you by the hand. I would be so pleased, though I don't know where I stand. I will take this chance. May I have this dance? I would be so pleased."

Now at last it's real
Finally you found me
Knowing all along
You would soon appear.
Through the dark I feel
Angels all around me
Whispering their song
There's no need to fear.

And after some hesitation
My voice sweetly sighs, saying
"I would be so pleased. To try and love again. I would be so pleased, to love you now and then. Formalities aside. No more love denied. I would be so pleased."

Is it what I'm worthy of?
Still I have my doubt.
Could I live my life for love, after life so long without?
There's so many ways to go
It makes it hard to see
I need so much more to know, if it's where I'm ment to be

Went down to the sea
Looked up to the mountain
Listened to the trees
Waiting for a sign

Thinking I'd be free, I stayed up in the mountains.
To the tender breeze, touched this heart of mine.

Through god's own manifestation, this voice sang through the sky, saying
"I would be so pleased. I would take you by the hand. I would be so pleased. You would reach the promise land.
You would finally thrive, and I would come alive.

I would be so pleased."

Lyrics Submitted by Lily S

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnlyrics.com/>