

The Evening

Thao & The Get Down Stay Down

I'll love you 'til I die
How else will you decide
How hard you're gonna try
One more, one more? God save how you believe
In your one true enemy
Don't know if I would need
One more, one more I brought my baby to bed, ooh child
Broke her to pieces instead
It was a mean while
Oh how should I?
Why should I, why should I?
There is no clean sin
With half a skeleton
So soon to let you in
On the end of the gentleman
Send me into the sea
So I meet my family
All swinging arms and feet
Where could the bottom be? All this time
A man alive
Look how I have grown
How I leave home I brought my baby to bed, ooh child
Broke her to pieces instead
It was a mean while
Oh how should I?
Why should I, why should I?
There is no clean sin
With half a skeleton
So soon to let you in
On the end of the gentleman
Send me into the sea
So I meet my family
All swinging arms and feet
Where could the bottom be? All this time
A man alive
Look how I have grown
How I leave home I brought my baby to bed, ooh child
Broke her to pieces instead
It was a mean while

Oh how should I?
Why should I, why should I? There is no clean sin
With half a skeleton
So soon to let you in
On the end of the gentleman
Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnyrics.com/>