

Where Is the Man

Vanden Plas

[Music : S.Lill / Lyrics: A.Kuntz] Like a storm in your head rose the vision of a man far away long ago we are crossways under sands and the robe like a crow flies on shadows through the night germination of his blood finds a way into the light show me your face - somewhere say who you are - beware tell me your name - I hear you and shine down your light anywhere where is the man kind of a stranger
a dual experiment
where - where is the man
under this "rosary circus" you cover the "eden" with hands all the lines in your hand from the burdens of your prayers saw the murder on the face of the paper front today his grand illusion was a charade you'd better not believe in him out of your salt - was made deep in your blood - I wait I am a part of you and I need to inhale all your fears where is the man I am savior
over the land
you cover the "eden" with hands and the ransom of paradise is the oldest dreams can the feathered associate lie to all the souls how can we try to escape
