

I Turn to You

Clay Crosse

A silent house, moonlit walls
Shadows move like ghosts down empty halls
The daily news lies on the floor
A crazy world waits outside my door
As life goes on I turn to You, Lord, in my hour of desperation
When the waters of my life are running dry
I turn to You, Lord and I find the inspiration
To believe my dreams are worth and honest try
In a world that breaks Your heart in two, I turn to You In crowded streets, lonely eyes
Search for love beneath darkening skies
I fight and fall for foolish gain
When will I learn, I earn it all in vain
Without Your love I turn to You, Lord, in my hour of desperation
When the waters of my life are running dry
I turn to You, Lord and I find the inspiration
To believe my dreams are worth and honest try
In a world that breaks Your heart in two, I turn to You

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>