

Moon & Sun

Vincent Liou

The Moon & Sun woke up as lovers
As they gave away the last of their covers
 The Moon promised she'd be back
 And the Sun smiled
Because who else did he haveEverybody's afraid of being alone
 And the place you moved to is so far from home
These city lights don't shine so bright anymore you knowThe Sun, he rose, only to find
 That the Moon had planned to leave him behind
 And the stars were the extras
 And the skies were the backdrops
 This isn't how she would like to feel
 Now that he's given up the tides for real
 Timing just wasn't right
She said to wait until the planets alignedLife's not a movie and Peace signs won't change anything
 Should I move on now
Or we will we find time somehow?
