Break Me Down

Unbroken

A system that's motivated me to judge and hate, I see differences and know you two people will never be the same I tried to change the habits forced on me, but inbred racism is hard to shake free, I won't let your hate control my soul and you won't break me down, how can I see equal when there is so much that divides live out a stereotype we place in our own lives, in order for racism to be wiped away, we must change the system we live everyday, I won't let your hate control my soul, and you won't break me down, you won't let me try to see equality, you won't break me down, you won't break me down,
you won't break me down, you won't break me down.
