

She's Crazy For Leaving

Rodney Crowell

Well the bus pulled away
In a roaring black cloud
Well I stood in the road
And Honey I hollered right out loud Hey darling I love ya.
Hey bus driver woe!
But you can't stop a women when she's out of control.
She's crazy for leaving! I told her so!
And the boys at the bus stop just said "man, let her go!"
She's crazy for leaving.
I told her so! But you can't stop a women when she's out of control
So I punched out my truck on a telephone pole!
No. she never looked back she just said "go driver go!"
Well I know I could a caught her But I ran outta luck!
She was long on to Lufkin by the time they cut me out of my truck
She's crazy for leaving.
I told her so! And the boys at the bus stop just said "man, let her go!"
She's crazy for leaving I told her so.
But you can't stop a women when she's out of control.
So I kicked and I cussed that old East Texas road I throw'd rocks at my truck, which had busted my nose
Ya add insult to injury and what do ya get?
Ya get a bus stop of honkies that don't ever forget!
She's crazy for leaving I told her so. And the bus depot lady just said "Hun, just let her go!"
She's crazy for leaving I told her so!
But you can't stop a women when she's out of control.
No, you can't stop a women when she's out of control. Ya know, she's probably already to Little Rock.

Songwriters

CLARK, GUY/EVERETT, JACE/DELRAY, STEPHANY S

Published by
Lyrics © Sony/ATV Music Publishing LLC, Warner/Chappell Music, Inc. Song Discussions is protected by U.S.
Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>