Put Yourself In My Place

Pam Tillis

Well, she broke your heart into a million pieces
And your confidence is scattered on the wind
Your mind is set on never even tryin' love again
But you don't own the only heart that's been brokenBaby, I've been through it all before
And the quickest way around that lonesome feeling
Is a plain and simple straight line to my doorPut yourself in my place, come on over anytime
Put yourself in my lovin' arms
Baby, I could change your mind
Yeah, I know just where you're coming from
Don't you think you've hurt enough?
Honey, put yourself in my place before you give up on loveNow I'm on the other side of a heartache
And if I can make it, baby, you can too
May you just need a little help now gettin' through
So before you think of throwin' the towelGive me a chance to soften your mistake
True love is waitin' just inside these four walls
Baby, it ain't never too latePut yourself in my place, come on over anytime
Put yourself in my lovin' arms
Baby, I could change your mind
Yeah, I know just where you're coming from
Don't you think you've hurt enough?
Honey, put yourself in my place before you give up on loveWell, I know just where you're coming from
Don't you think you've hurt enough?
Honey, put yourself in my place before you give up on love
Put yourself in my place before you give up on love

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/