

Crushing Me

Stabbing Westward

I'm feeling the weight of the world

and it's crushing me

I'm feeling the weight of everyday life

and it's crushing me

how much more will it take

how much more until it breaks me

this world is crushing me

I'm feeling the hate of the world

and it's crushing me

I'm feeling the hate of everyday life

and it's crushing me

I've spent every moment since the day you left attempting to regain the shattered remains of my pathetic life working to be someone you can be proud of someone you can love again

I have given you everything that I have to give everything i'm able to give taking into consideration your reluctance to accept anything I have to offer

I'm tired of living my life for you

I'm tired of living for everyone else in this world

I'm tired of...?

I swallow the hate, betrayal and lies swallow it whole, shove it deep down inside of me feeling the weight of the world, and it's crushing me

how much more will it take?

how much more until it breaks me?

this world is crushing me

Lyrics powered by lyrics.tancode.com written by Kubiszewski, Andy / Flakus, Walter / Sellers, James Eric / Hall, Christopher

Lyrics Â© EMI Music Publishing

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>