When Light Will Dawn

Funeral

Time to depart and breaking the seal Pour red wine and the softest of lips
Oh, wish me well and I goTower your strength, an ascendance to hell Cut me deep with your ignorance and leave me beI scorn my pityful self do not cherish my mistakesYour fury rules at hand within when light will dawn and sun will fade Darker than the darkest night what burning lust you radiateCarry me, into the fields In roses lay,
Souls are now eternal sealedFrom my cup, you quenched your thirst, I'm bathing in misery, you gave your first
