Even Now

Dashboard Confessional

Even now, I can smell your clothes
Freshly from the wash
Still hot from the dryerEven now, I can smell your skin
As I wrap you in a towel

Lay you on the bed

And try to love youEven now, I can feel your arms

I can feel your breast

I can hear your songs

And I always can find you againEven now, I can feel your hand Gently over mine

With almost no weight at allEven now, I can feel your eyes

Watch me as I strum

Much too late at nightEven now, I can see you smile

I can hear you hum

I can hear you sing

And I always can find you again Even in the dark of night

Even in the lowest light

Even as the world outside

Is spinning and spinningEven now, I can feel your hair

Blow across my cheek

As we sit in one of two chairs Even now, I can feel your face

Resting on my chest

Wrestling for sleep

And failing at itEven now, I can see you sleep

I can see you dream

I can see you fly

And I always can find you again

And I always can find you again
