Treat Me Like a Stranger

Bobby Long

You say you can tell the different parts of me, one a falling bird, another a lonely child, if it's gonna be you, my judge and my saviour, bury me in rock, just like I told you,If I had a candle, I'd light it at your end, but you won't light me up, not even a part of me, so let the colours run, my lover, my friend, bury me in sand, right up till the endBut maybe for tonight, treat me like a stranger like I was never here, in the wake of the danger, one more time around, treat me like a stranger, then you won't recognize me,Turn me over babe, turn me loose and under, then you can drift away, leave me to the lonely tide, but I'm glad it was you, my friend and my lover, give me to the waves, send me down under,
