Where It Used to Break

Lila McCann

How it happened, I haven't a clue
I just woke up one mornin' and was over you
No Hallelujah chorus, nothin' written in the stars
Just a peaceful feelin' settled on my heartOh no, there ain't no easy way
No deed that you can do
No magic prayer that you can pray
Oh yeah, time is what it takes
To make a heart start bending
Where it used to breakIt was wishful thinkin', thinkin' I'd be all right
With a pep talk from my sister and a couple good cries
It only got better when I got it through my head
Ain't no gettin' 'round a heartache, got to roll with it insteadOh no, there ain't no easy way
No deed that you can do
No magic prayer that you can pray
Oh yeah, time is what it takes
To make a heart start bending
Where it used to breakLittle by little
One tear at a time
I felt like I was dying
But I made it out aliveOh no, there ain't no easy way
No deed that you can do
No magic prayer that you can pray
Oh yeah, time is what it takes
To make a heart start bending
Where it used to breakYeah, I make a heart start bending
Where it used to break
