Rescue Me

Krystal Meyers

Swallowing this hurt, making it lie down I'm my strongest ally, living life as I know how I'm carrying the weight of a world that sold me out I'm running with my eyes closed, hoping you don't see this doubt I'm lost for words I'm at a loss to tell you what I need I know there's something more God, help me to believe And all this time I thought the fight The fight was only mine, I need to let you rescue me I'm taking fire, I'm feeling tired I'm tired of this fight, I need to let you rescue me I let it go to breathe, I can't take it anymore I refuse to wake up one more time bleeding on the floor I won't let myself hold back, I'll surrender what's inside

You become my healing tourniquet so I can feel alive I feel so exposed I'm afraid to lose total control With nothing left to hold You reach for me and wouldn't let me go And all this time I thought the fight The fight was only mine, I need to let you rescue me I'm taking fire, I'm feeling tired I'm tired of this fight, I need to let you rescue me And all this time I thought the fight The fight was only mine, I need to let you rescue me I'm taking fire, I'm feeling tired I'm taking fire, I'm feeling tired I'm tired of this fight, I need to let you rescue me
