

Elegy

As I Lay Dying

Did you ever see me or could you even see at all
I looked at your cold white face, so still, so empty
Yet I knew you were at rest
Much more comforted than I What else could I find to replace who you were
It was the carefree unrestricted love that you never meant to give
You never had the choice
It was your innocence It was part of who you were
It was the comfort of a friend

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>