

Hope For Me Yet

Marc Broussard

"I could bless the water, but it wouldn't turn to wine
Paint a picture of the sunset hangin' there in your eyes,
But it'd just be some compromise I could write a million verses of words you've heard before,
Steal some of Dylan's best, but it'd leave me wanting to say more
'Cause there's so much more Baby if you could love someone like me,
There's no end to the possibilities
Hopes and dreams push away the pain and regret
But lovin' you just lets me know,
There might be hope for me yet Sometimes when I look back I don't even know myself
Blows my mind to think that I've found
Grace in someone else, baby your grace is somethin' else Baby if you could love someone like me,
There's no end to the possibilities
Hopes and dreams push away the pain and regret
But lovin' you just lets me know,
There might be hope for me yet For a man who's done nothin',
I've been blessed with so much more than I deserve
I'm smart enough to now that I've been handed somethin',
Can't put a price on what it's worth Baby if you could love someone like me,
There's no end to the possibilities
Hopes and dreams push away the pain and regret
But lovin' you just lets me know,
There might be hope for me yet Hope for me yet"

Songwriters

BROUSSARD, MARC / FOSTER, RADNEY M. / TOCKET, JUSTIN Published by

Lyrics © Warner/Chappell Music, Inc., Universal Music Publishing Group Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>