Your Generation

Generation X

Trying to forget your generation
You know all the ways when in what I see
The ends must justify the means
Your generation don't mean a thing to me
I say your generation don't mean a thing to me

I say your generation don't mean a thing to meMight take a bit of violence

But violence ain't our only stance

Might make our friends enemies

But we gotta take that chanceThere ain't no time for substitutes

There ain't no time for idle threats

Actions are rather hard to place

'Cause what you give is what you getSo, that's your generation

It's your generation

Well it's your generation

It's your generationTrying to forget your generation

You know all the ways when in what I see

The ends must justify the means

Your generation don't mean a thing to me

I say your generation don't mean a thing to me

I say your generation don't mean a thing to meMight take a bit of violence

But violence ain't our only stance

Might make our friends enemies

But we gotta take that chanceThere ain't no time for substitutes

There ain't no time for idle threats

Actions are rather hard to place

Cause what you give is what you getSo, that's your generation

It's your generation

Well it's your generation

It's your generationTo the end justify the means

To the end justify the means

To the end justify the means

To the end justify the means

It time for generation

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/