

My Parasite

Emezie

Parasite

All alone when all is well; not a worry in the world
Not a heaven or a hell; when your world is but a pearl

Drifting in the endless sea; living ignorance was bliss
Your only purpose was to be; until the day it met a fish

"What a sad pathetic life, my parasite! my parasite.
I can help you live it right and see the seas in the moonlight!"
So the fish taught parasite to swim; and parasite was amazed
By the sea and sights within; such a wonderful place

Parasite

All alone when all was well; not a worry in the world
Neither heaven nor a hell; back when life was but a pearl
But now you've seen the massive sea; and now your old life seems absurd
You said the fish was what you need; until the day you met a bird

"What a sad pathetic life. My parasite, my parasite.
I can help you live it right; through the gift of flight."
So the bird taught parasite to soar; and parasite was amazed
From the plains to grassy shores; the world's a wonderful place

Parasite

All alone when all was well; not a worry in the world
Not a heaven nor a hell; back when life was but a pearl
But now you've flown across the world; it's all so beautiful and cool
And now your old life seems absurd; until the day you met a wolf

"What a sad pathetic life. My parasite, my parasite.
Without your friends to make it right; without a wolf pack to spend the night."
And so the wolf howled to the sky; and its pack came around the bend and
The parasite, it realized; the true meaning of friends

Parasite

All alone when all was well; not a worry in the world
Neither heaven nor a hell; back when life was but a pearl
But now the parasite had heard; the strength of friendship in the world
And now its old life seemed absurd; then it met a girl
