

Mike Garrigan

On and off
 You told me to wake you up
 When the hand reaches the six I crash over, laying (laying) My eyes on the road Help me to hold on to all your foes, they will be the last ones always You and I are lost can't save this,
 world if we could see the truth through the lies
 But you and I will never be the same Again On and Off
 The ropes in which I upheld Two lines across your face for every smile you gave to me with love Help me to hold on to all your foes,
 they will be the last ones always You and I are lost can't save this,
 world if we could see the truth through the lies
 But you and I will never be the same Again I beg myself to watch your face and clear the sin of you away for love the key will always be disguised You and I are lost can't save this,
 world if we could see the truth through the lies
 Again
