

Thank God I Kissed You

Boyzone

Yeah it's 4 am and the earth stands still The city's took a sleeping pill But I'm awake and lying next to you, yeah And old familiar thoughts begin I'd hate to think without what I'd do So it's 4 am and I breathe you in Well I could have turned left And you could have turned right Well if you hadn't smiled and if I hadn't asked I
have been two ships that passed And I might have never known your name Thank god I kissed you, that I kissed you Was it all just chance Was it in the stars for you and me Was it meant to be There's a million doors, but just one key It can take one touch It can take one look And we are just fulfilling destiny Well our whole life's a storybook [CHORUS] Thank god I kissed you That I touched you That I met you, now I love you Well I'm hooked on you and without you I'm insane And you could have turned right Well I could have turned left I could have stayed at home that night And you you might have never caught that train, for the rain Well if you hadn't smiled and if I hadn't asked We could have been two ships that passed And I might have never known your name Thank god I kissed you And thank god I kissed you Thank god I kissed you Cause I could have missed you Thank god that I kissed you That I touched you That I met you, now I love you Thank god I kissed you Thank god I kissed you
