

Thought I'd Let You Know

Alejandro Escovedo

Just thought I'd let you know, party's over.
There's no more furniture to break.
Glasses left, the smell.
Children stare into the window.
They all have pretty hair.
And pretty voices.
Sing like their mothers. We're not alone.
We are all alone... We're not alone.
We are all alone... Now the leaves fall down.
Leaves are always falling down.
These bones are brittle bones.
These bones are noisy. We're not alone.
We are all alone... We're not alone.
We are all alone... We're not alone.
We are all alone... We're not alone.
We are all alone...
