Life

Daedalus

Life, life is the most enchanting gift you have
You said to me when I was crying
And I felt your embrace
Hearing your sweet voice
And soon my tears were dried out from my eyesIn moments of deep uncertainty sometimes
You asked me to be your confidant
And I saw your face
Smiling back at me
Your genuine and loving way of caringHow can you feel
When theres nothing within
The clearest of your dreams?
Youve been misled
So wake up, wake up my friend!Born in times of distress
You quickly grew up
Found your love so young, so adored
Spent your days making plans
Untiring and bright
Hoping for a chance for your familyNo wish fulfilled but no regrets at all
No way to escape from your last intentHow can I feel
If theres nothing I own
To comprehend your world?
Now I feel weaker
So help me, help me my dear!Waiting for sleep
I close my eyes and whisper to you
As I call your name I draw relief
And it seems youre here again
I can hold your hands in mine
Listen to me, Ill let you know
How I fear to lose my memories
How I miss you
I miss you so much!
