

Songs Will Write the Words

Twothirtyeight

Sometimes you look so beautiful
But love is just a chemical passing through my head
This time the songs will write the words to the music I've been making
The words that I've been taking have been getting longer
This time the songs will write the words to the music I've been making
This time the songs will write I'm sick of being sick of being thirsty for a drink
Of the one thing you can get me if I could just forget me
Lock the door with the book in raise the table
And the ceiling meanwhile books will fall in
This time the songs will write the words
This time the songs will write the words
This time the songs will write the words
This time the songs will write the words

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnlyrics.com/>