

After the Rain

Karnataka

At the midnight skyline
Where it all began
A sanctuary
Comfort for a lonely man
Footsteps fading faster
Miles and countless miles
Divided, a solitary shooting star falls to earth
Looking for a better life He longs to taste the danger
With his restless heart
Cast aside, a spirit free to fly at last for all time
Leaving the city behind For a while captured his heart
Like a lonely spirit searching, the lightning that fractures the night
So natural, like a second sight Feels so right
Darkness fades away
He's seen heaven's light
And had so much to say
Feels so high
Come what may
Head and heart together
Over and over again From way up high where the river flows
No-one listening
Just standing there in line
Always hoping for a simple life
Nothing wrong, no regrets
No-one cares, if they tell a thousand lies Free to fly at last
Take me where your river flows
Seems I have so much to say
Hear my beating heart call to me and stop
Make me King for just one day Feels so right
Darkness fades away
He's seen heaven's light
And had so much to say
Feels so high
Come what may
Head and heart together
Over and over again From way up high where the river flows
The peaceful water lingers on the way After the rain
The usual horizon

A different day
Alone with the stars
History fading
A brand new start
Nothing on earth felt this way
