I Ain't Gonna Take It Anymore

Faith Hill

You've worn the soles of both your shoes
Walkin' on me like you do this ain't what forevers for
And I ain't gonna take it, I ain't gonna take it anymore
I've cried and begged and cursed and prayed
But nothing's worked and nothing's changed
No way I win when you keep score
And I ain't gonna take it, I ain't gonna take it anymore
I'm gonna crawl out from this stone that I've been under
To see the light and breathe the air
An' you'll have a million reasons why I shouldn't leave you
But for the first time, in a long time, I don't care
I guess on one hand you should laugh
'Cause I've said the same things in the past
But this time one hand's on the door
And I ain't gonna take it, I ain't gonna take it, anymore
I'm gonna crawl out from this stone that I've been under
To see the light and breathe the air
An' you'll have a million reasons why I shouldn't leave you
But for the first time, in a long time, I don't care
Now, I can't help but think of you lookin' back in my rear view
But I've been down that road before
And I ain't gonna take it, I ain't gonna take it anymore
I ain't gonna take it, I ain't gonna take it anymore
