

Discovering the Waterfront

Silverstein

I will promise myself I won't care
Distracting myself from your stare
And I've seen this mistake once before
With your games I will never fall for I've hung up my guns
I won't kill again I won't forget you
I'm not gonna let you win
But I'm tired of lying, tired of fighting you
And it's not gonna change You asked for my heart
You know that I'm down
But not the way you lie to me and tear it all apart
And beg for me to stay I've sailed off to sea
I'm not coming back I won't forget you
I'm not gonna let you win
But I'm tired of lying, tired of fighting you, no
And it's not gonna change Counting down, make that sound
And you know it makes no sense
Counting down till you mess around
And I know you can't ever change When I'm trembling, thrown overboard
When I'm ready to relive the past
Counting down, make that sound
Break the silence Pretend it's not forever, I'll pull myself together
I'll say that I'll forget her, I'll breathe
And I'll say she never hurt me and look at it as learning
And laugh about the good and the bad Because I will live forever, we don't belong together
I know I'll feel better, one day when I can make it through I won't forget you
I'm not gonna let you win
But I'm tired of lying, tired of fighting you
And it's not gonna change I won't forget you
I'm not gonna let you win
I'm tired of the lying, tired of fighting you
And it's not gonna change
