Gostwyck

And all those trees, they clap their hands as I walk.
The river sings, it laughs so loud as I crawl.
And it calls my name.

Oh I canâ€™t fight this anymore, your burning heart,
oh I canâ€™t fight this anymore, anymore.

And all those crows, they swoop down over me.
In all of this, you made a man of me.
Hardened by the slow decay.

Oh I canâ€™t fight this anymore, your burning heart,
oh I canâ€™t fight this anymore, anymore.

I breathe in slow,
we spiral down,
I lose my grip on you.

And now,
oh I canâ€™t fight this anymore, your burning heart,
oh I canâ€™t fight this anymore, your burning heart,
oh I canâ€™t fight this anymore, your burning heart,
oh I canâ€™t fight this anymore, anymore.
