

Just Married

Marty Robbins

Just married this mornin', how happy they are!
'Just married' written on the window of their car
It broke my heart to see them drive away
I lost the one I love todayDressed all in white satin, white lace in her hair
She looked so lovely, it was more than I could bear
Some people guessed the way I felt inside
They saw the tears I could not hideI should have stayed at home
I knew what was in store
But somethin' made me come
To see her just once moreJust married this mornin', how happy they are!
'Just married' written on the window of their car
It broke my heart to see them drive away
I lost the one I love todayI should have stayed at home
I knew what was in store
But somethin' made me come
To see her just once moreJust married this mornin', how happy they are!
'Just married' written on the window of their car
It broke my heart to see them drive away
I lost the one I love today

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>