

King In Crimson

Bruce Dickinson

In the darkness the raven's head
In the courtyard clothed in fear
I see gates that are openin'
There's only one way out of here Daylight has gone
The night has come See his twisted sons and daughters
Writin' slowly in Satan's mire
If you only could see the visions
The tremblin' world I now despise As the veil reveals the outer darkness
I am sucked into the halls of flame Arise awake the King in crimson comes Arise awake the King in crimson, crimson comes He knows the weakness that you can't fight
The stone of night that weighs you down
If you only could see the visions
His hand is death if you take it now As you scream into the web of silence
There is nothin' that can save you now Arise awake the King in crimson comes
Arise awake the King in crimson, crimson comes
Arise awake the King in crimson comes
Arise awake the King in crimson, crimson comes As you scream into the web of silence
There is nothin' that can save you now Arise awake the King in crimson comes
Arise awake the King in crimson, crimson comes
Arise awake the King in crimson comes
Arise awake the King in crimson, crimson comes To your window I come
At your window I come

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>