Slice

Five For Fighting

There was a time a long, long time ago Chevy's and levees played on the radio No cell phones, just 20 thousand lights Swaying on a Saturday night, alrightCan you imagine that slice of time? Rock and roll was young, people stood in line To hear music that played into their lives That you could carry 'til the day you dieHey man, sing me a song When we were everyone We were more than just a slice Of American pieHave you read my blog today? 300 million little USA's Your doorstep is just a click away We'll get together one of these daysHow can you be as nice as me? You're not from the same slice as me Where do we go from here my friend? Is this the way our story ends? Hey man, sing me a song When we were everyone We were more than just a slice Of American piel can't stop singing along Can you join in, come on? Are we more than just a slice Of American Pie?We're top down lovers, it's Saturday night The band's running and it feels so right The moon's dancing and the stars are free I caught your heart on a summer breezeWhatever was or what's meant to be Our melodies are memories There was a time a long, long time ago Chevy's and levees played on the radio No cell phones, just 20 thousand lights Swaying on a Saturday night alrightHey man, sing me a song When we were everyone We were more than just a slice Of American pieI can't stop singing along Can you join in, come on? Are we more than just a slice Of American pie?We're more than a slice We're more than a slice We're more than just a slice Of American pie
