Reading Signs

Generationals

It doesn't matter how
When the words come out
The little child is all you are
You could call them lies
When your heart's on fire
When you find the words you're looking forYou're storming out like there's someone after you
They're finding out how you behave
It's not the barrels that you're playing for
There's still a matador to pay
You've got the whole thing on your back
It's amazing that you made it at all
You've got the whole world thinking that
It's amazing that you made it at allIt doesn't matter how
You put the feelings down
The little child is all you are
You could call them lies
When you're reading signs
And you hear me knocking at your doorJust started out with a funny attitude
You punk the night and call your name
It's not the sentence that you're playing for
It's some matador to payEven when your heart is just set, you wanna
Someone got a game that you start, with your broken heart
You've got the whole thing on your back
It's amazing that you made it at all
You've got the whole room feeling that
It's amazing that you made it at all
