

Sweet Surrender

Erasure

All the miles of glory really nothing to me
It's all our love here, we are invisible again
Imagine how it goes, I believe in sweet surrender
And searching for so long, it will stay with me forever
No, I won't ever ask for your surrender
No religion and choruses again
But it won't leave me desolate and angry
Are there no poets in politics again
See the window upon the free world closing slowly
And poor men crawl upon your bony knees again
Imagine how it goes, I believe in sweet surrender
And searching for so long, it will stay with me forever
No I won't ever ask for your surrender
Holy roller and passion played again
On this day that I don't care to remember
No religion and choruses again
Imagine how it goes, I believe in sweet surrender
I feel lost as a dying rose in embers
No religion and choruses again
No, I won't ever ask for your surrender
Are there no poets in politics again
No I won't ever ask for your surrender
Holy roller and passion played again
On this day that I don't care to remember

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>