

Live Like You're Alive

September Mourning

Words. You speak but when you say them
Your eyes always betray them
Awake but hardly breathing
Buried yourself alive Your past regrets we don't need them
This moment that we live in
The joy and pain are bleeding
While you waste yourself killing time Hold forever in your eyes
Leave this hell for paradise
Won't you live like you're alive And when the sun surrenders to the night
Your fears cast shadows deep inside
Go on and live like you're alive
Live like you're alive
Doors. The ones you never walked through
Do you see me standing
Unafraid and unassuming
I'm yours to take away Your past regrets we don't want them
This moment that we live in
The life you live is fleeting
You waste yourself killing time Hold forever in your eyes
Leave this hell for paradise
Won't you live like you're alive And when the sun surrenders to the night
Your fears cast shadows deep inside
Go on and live like you're alive
Live like you're alive
You're drowning in your own sea of complication
If you could own up to me
Live like you're alive
From a swelled earth the oceans rise
The rise and fall of blackened tides
Carry what we possess inside Hold forever in your eyes
Leave this hell for paradise
Won't you live like you're alive Hold forever in your eyes
Leave this hell for paradise
Won't you live like you're alive
Live like you're alive And when the sun surrenders to the night
Your fears cast shadows deep inside
Go on and live like you're alive
Live like you're alive
