

Always the Sun

Richard Durand

Her darkness grows in fields of loneliness
Every breath as cold as ice
Where lies the truth painted black
Searching for some light to lead you back Always the sun after all
Always the sun like a wailing wall
Give me hope, show some meaning Always the sun to strike a chord
Always the sun to turn the world
Always Her darkness grows in fields of loneliness
Every breath, as cold as ice
Where lies the truth, painted black
Searching for some light to lead you back Always the sun after all
Always the sun like a wailing wall
Give me hope, show some meaning Always the sun to strike a chord
Always the sun to turn the world
Always Always the sun after all
Always the sun like a wailing wall
Give me hope, show some meaning Always the sun to strike a chord
Always the sun to turn the world
Always Always the sun after all
Always the sun like a wailing wall
Give me hope, show some meaning Always the sun to strike a chord
Always the sun to turn the world
Always
