

A Wedding Ring Ago

Kitty Wells

You say that I was all to blame,
That's untrue because you know,
I gave my heart and soul to you,
A million tears ago,
But you were satisfied,
At least you told me so ho-ho,
That was just a wedding ring ago.

I couldn't offer much to you,
Just a promise to bring you joy
And I was much too young to see,
You used me like a toy,
Then one day a stranger came,
Her name I did not know ho-ho,
That was just a wedding ring ago.

She was a millionaire,
It was what you wanted you thought,
But much too late you realized,
Happiness could not be bought
You left her now you want me back,
But another's love I know ho-ho,
I made him mine a wedding ring ago.
