

Did I Say That?

Meat Loaf

So this is what it feels like
To be the one left behind
To give it all you got and find
You've already changed your mind
And I don't want to be right awake
Clinging to a love that can't be saved
And hanging on the edge of every word that you say
And so I asked myself: do I love you so much that I'm willing to let you go
And at the tip of my tongue the answer was yes
But at the bottom of my heart I'm wondering
Did I say that?
No, no did I say that?
Sometimes you know I overreact
And what I say is not a matter of fact
And I wish that I could take it all back
And you know I drag myself to fire at your side
And you know the gates of heaven surely open wide
And I need some sympathy here and I need someone to call my own
I'm standing in the light of my mistakes and begging you come home
And so I asked myself do I love you so much that I'm willing to let you go
And at the tip of my tongue the answer was yes
But at the back of my mind I'm wondering
Did I say that?
Oh, no, no did I say that?
Ohh...
Sometimes you know I overreact
And what I say is not a matter of fact
And I wish that I could take it all back
And I need some sympathy here and I want to love to call my own
I want to take you in the backseat now and slowly drive you home
And I know you need some time to run and hide
But the truth is hard to swallow and you're choking on your pride
And I don't want to be this wide awake fighting for a love that I can't save
And hanging on the edge of every word you say knowing that it might make me cry
And I don't want to be this complicated you can drag it out but I'll be waiting
I stumbled on to love you tonight but it sounded like good-bye
Did I say that?
Did I say that?
Did I tell you that I love you cause I do it on a matter of fact

Did I say that? (8x)

And I wish that I could take it all back
