Blue Eyes

Driving East

Advisory - the following lyrics contain explicit language:

Did your stop beating, when you heard the news, of her lies and infidelities in the back room
Our house is something sacred that I burned to the ground
You could see my sins for miles and miles aroundYou cried more tears, before you turned twenty-four
I can't lose sight of her
I can't say I'd dump her
You cried more tears, before you turned twenty-four
I can't lose sight of her
I can't lose sight of herSay
I have no intention,
of living my life this,
Way
Too many games to play,
by casting my curtain the sameIt started out as a secret, that you'd never know I was sleeping around, you were sleeping alone
If to make matters worse, you never heard it from me
You had to hear it from a friend
You had to hear if from a friendYou cried more tears, before you turned twenty-four
I can't lose sight of her
I can't say I'd dump her
You cried more tears, before you turned twenty-four
I can't lose sight of her
I can't lose sight of herSay
I have no intention,
of living my life this,
Way
Too many games to play,
by casting my curtain the sameI promised to give you eternity
But you fell before this went down

I feel so insecure, now I need you more I wish you all the happiness that I could never give youGoddamn these bright blue eyes, It's a perfect disguise, and you're hanging on every word,
I say, what you want to hear,
before I disappear
I'm hanging from every word [x2]
