

If I Had You

Debbie Harry

"If I Had You" After all this time I still can't remember
Things that I've forgotten to say
And every time I see you the words don't come out right
It's just a stupid game that I play (If I had you) I'd know all the answers
(If I had you) the questions wouldn't even matter
I've been living a lifetime I'm dying to know if it's true if I had you I've been holding on for what feels like forever
I can't seem to let it all go
Picking up the pieces that we put together
Learning things we already know (If I had you) I'd know all the answers
(If I had you) the questions wouldn't even matter
I've been living a lifetime I'm dying to know if it's true Something else is going on I can't see right through
I don't know if it's right or wrong
I don't know what to do
And I can't stop your eyes from saying things we always knew
So look at me and tell me what to do (If I had you) I'd know all the answers
(If I had you) the questions wouldn't even matter
I've been living a lifetime I'm dying to know if it's true (If I had you) I'd know all the answers
(If I had you) the questions wouldn't even add up
I've been living a lifetime I'm dying to know if it's true if I had you
