

Something More Than Ink

Have Heart

just take a fucking good look at jus what you did you set a raging fire in the heart of a kid your words, and the message you sent are held in my heart as they burn inside my head it burns, burning inside my head even if you chose a different path to tread i guess it was something inside it was something more to us you took a different path from the one you once set but that's the cycle of life so take your steps ahead that doesn't change one thing in my life i'll never cease to keep your words alive i still believe in what was said i'll hold on 'til the last thread
your absence doesn't bring my values' death
a "hero's fall" will never change what i think 'cus at the core of my heart this is something more than ink
something more than ink
on a page, on a shirt, on the back of my hand it's something written in stone words we wrote in stone
