I'll Be the Light

Colton Dixon

There's a space that you're safe
That I want you to see
I don't care if it hurts
Crash into me
Let tomorrow clear the smoke

There's a spark in your heart
That's all you need
Let me be your trail of gasoline
Don't let the fire get to low

When you're tired of faith
And searching for a sign

I'll be the light
When there's nothing but night
Till now you've had to feel your way
Through the honest lies of yesterday

I'll guide you in
No matter how long you've been
Lost in love and all alone
A million miles away from home
And when your dawn refuses to fight
I'll be the light

Circle in like a plane
When you're ready to land
Runaway signals in my hands
Through the clouds of your denial

I remember the year that weren't there
I remember the days tha would never end
Can you remember how to smile ?

When you're out of faith
I'll give you some of mine

I'll be the light
When there's nothing but night

Till now you've had to feel your way
Through the honest lies of yesterday

I'll guide you in
No matter how long you've been
Lost in love and all alone
A million miles away from home
And when your dawn refuses to fight
I'll be the light

you can count on me
Open your eyes
And you will see

That I'll be the light
When there's nothing but night
Till now you've had to feel your way
Oh
I'll guide you in
No matter how long you've been
Lost in love and all alone
A million miles away from home
And when your dawn refuses to fight

And when your dawn refuses to fight
I'll be the light

I'll be the light

Lyrics submitted by vph.

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/