

Sun Went Black

Springtime Carnivore

In the middle of the night when the sun goes black I tried calling your name out but you don't call back And when the fence is swinging I think you're finally near But when the headlights pull up you're not behind the wheel
And when the sun burns out
(I will forget you)
I'm slowly learning how (how to forget you)
Kiss by kiss, I'll erase
all of you
Living without you
is no life at all
Living without you
is no life, no life, no life at all Where the car was parked I soak into the mulch
I try to disappear right into the air
Will you meet me in the middle?
Somewhere away from here where we can be each other when we re-appear
And when the sun burns out
(I will forget you)
I'm slowly learning how
(how to forget you)
all of you
Living without you
is no life at all
Living without you
is no life, no life, no life at all
Living without you
is no life at all
Living without you
it's no life, no life, no life at all
it's no life, no life, no life at all
