

Through My Veins

Asia

Invisible sun cast your shadow over me
As wind cuts like a knife
Catapulting me from life with you
Waiting on an empty street, hiding from the sun And in one place or another
All my memories still remain
You've been taken from my eyes
But you're running through my veins Down corridors of rocks and sand
It's littered and it's torn
The wear and tear from dusk till dawn
Waiting on an empty street, hiding from the sun And in one place or another
All my memories still remain
You've been taken from my eyes
But you're running through my veins
You've been taken from my eyes
But you're running through my veins This treasure can be anyone's
To believe in only one
It's not a foolish thing, there's no comparison
Waiting on an empty street, hiding from the sun And in one place or another
All my memories still remain
You've been taken from my eyes
But you're running through my veins You've been taken from my eyes
But you're running through my veins
You've been taken from my eyes
But you're running through my veins Through my veins, through my veins
Through my veins, through my veins
Through my veins, through my veins
Through my veins

Songwriters

John Kenneth Wetton; Steve James Howe Published by

BOUNDMERE LTD.; BUG MUSIC Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>