Flesh and Bones

Chloe Temtchine

Kept in the dark Pushed into the light
They cut the cord
They start your life
Invincible
A newborn face
And different things are one and the same

All we are are flesh and bones
in the end

A steady marsh
to an unknown place We soldier on
We set a different pace Why start a war
of greed and blame?
When every heart
still beats the same?

All we are are flesh and bones
in the end

Your eyes are brown and mine are, too
But I don't see the world like you It's still in time
Our hell will pray We'll all leave like we came

All we are, all we are
are flesh and bones in the end

are flesh and bones in the end
